

Going Into All the World Ministries

Jay & Valerie Ranton

June, 2018

BLESSING THE NATIONS

In you all nations shall be blessed

"Bless the LORD, O
my soul;...
Who forgives all your
iniquities,
Who heals all your
diseases,
Who redeems your
life from destruction"

Psalms 103

Today Is A Day For Victory!

Yesterday (June 3, 2018) the volcano named "Fire" erupted 10 miles from our home. This eruption was the deadliest eruption in Guatemala in over a hundred years. As I write this, bodies are still being dragged from underneath the ash. Roads are closed and homes are destroyed. Thankfully, at House of Destiny we just have a ton of clean-up. Literally--this sand is heavy and add water it becomes like cement. Everything is covered with ash. The President of Guatemala has declared us under a state of emergency. Schools are closed and it's recommended that people stay indoors.

Yesterday, as the ash was falling it was very reminiscent of when I was a child in southern Ontario and the first snow fall of the season occurred. Back then it was a beautiful site, everything covered in white, there was a crispness in the air, and the snow was crunching under foot. Yet yesterday was different, destructive and for some scary. As the ash and rocks were falling yesterday it was a contrast of a first snow fall but everything was black including the rain, leaves, roofs, and the cars. It was raining black sand and pebbles. The sand covered everything, it crunched under our feet. It destroyed.

Yesterday I listened to a message from a pastor who recently had a near death experience. He had peace through his storm. It was a trial for him, but God was with him throughout, speaking, caring, healing and loving. He is still speaking and healing and loving people. As the ash was falling and people were dying, here at House of Destiny there was peace in the air, with the rocks. He will never leave us nor forsake us. That is a great promise worth latching on to. Even now as I hear sirens and emergency vehicles pass our home I am confident in His love. Paul prays in Ephesians that we would know the “height, depth, width and length of His love for us.” I believe that is a key to victorious living, knowing how much He loves us. Hold onto that promise for you and your family too! He will never leave us nor forsake us! Even when it seems all is lost and it’s raining dirt, know that He loves you and He is with you.

Yesterday was a bad day for Guatemala.

Today is a new day for victory. Hebrews 13:8 “Jesus, the same YESTERDAY, TODAY AND FOREVER”. Hallelujah that is good news. If something did happen yesterday I was and am confident that we will all be with Him forever because He loves us.

Today is our day for victory!!

We love you all and pray that you will have victory today and every day.

Jay and Valerie and the children of House of Destiny

Valerie, Darlin, Monica and Irsi on Resurrection Sunday

